Signs of Caregiver Stress

Submitted by the Therapy Department

Too much stress can be damaging to both the caregiver and family members. The following stress indicators, experienced frequently or simultaneously, can lead to more serious health problems.

1. The caregiver may deny the disease and its effect on the person who's been diagnosed.
2. The caregiver may express anger that no effective treatments or cures currently exist for chronic conditions such as Alzheimer's disease and that people don't understand what's going on.
3. The caregiver may withdraw socially from friends and activities that once brought pleasure.
4. The caregiver may express anxiety about facing another day and what the future holds.
5. The caregiver may experience depression, which eventually breaks the spirit and affects coping ability.
6. The caregiver may be exhausted, which makes it nearly impossible to complete necessary tasks.
7. The caregiver may experience sleeplessness caused by worrying.
8. The caregiver may express irritability, which may lead to moodiness and trigger negative responses and reactions.
9. Lack of concentration on the part of the caregiver makes it difficult to perform familiar tasks.
10. The caregiver experiences mental and physical health problems.

Support Our Efforts

Like most of us, we know too many people whose lives have been touched by Alzheimer's disease, the nation's sixth-leading cause of death. That's why we're joining the Alzheimer's Association Walk to End Alzheimer's®. We've committed to raising awareness and funds to support Alzheimer's care, support and research. We have set a goal of $5,000.00 for the fight against Alzheimer's. Please help us reach our goal by making a tax-deductible donation. Walk to End Alzheimer's is about so much more than walking., we gather together to honor those affected and their caregivers, remember those who are no longer with us and make a pledge to reclaim the future for millions. We know we can do this with your support. Would you please consider making a donation? Visit our fundraising Web page at <http://act.alz.org/goto/nhcmauldin> to learn more and make a secure on-line contribution. You can also mail a donation using the enclosed pledge form. Checks should be made payable to the Alzheimer's Association and are tax deductible. Thank you in advance for your time and generosity.
