Tie dye for Crisis Nursery St. Charles

Thank you to our stay at home volunteers: Barb, Jessica, and Hope for helping us create our activity packet materials. Barb worked on our bible trivia, mind stretches, and finishing the lines. Jessica and her mom Beth, put together our trivia. Hope has been typing out short mysteries for residents to work on. Thank you, for your dedication to our residents. If you would like to volunteer from home, please see Nichole or Lauren in recreation.

Painting Collaboration

Painting Collaborations continue to be a relaxing part of a Thursday afternoon. Justin said, "I love going up and down a hallway asking residents 'what do you think is missing in this painting?'" I get some of the most creative answers, and it all tells a story!" On B Hall, Justin went door to door asking residents what could be added. Laurette envisioned a bright blue sky with a jeep driving over some sand dunes. Joann thought maybe the sand could be a beach overlooking the ocean. Doris and Jackie thought maybe we need people doing something, so they thought playing volleyball was the best beach activity. Looking at what had been done, Stacy imagined a girl in a green jumpsuit reading a book by the waves, and birds—maybe seagulls—flying in the sky. Nancy wanted a kitten by a beach ball; Jeanne and Mary thought the picture was missing something on the far right and left, so we added a sailboat in the water on the right and green grass by a fence on the left. Shirley thought we needed a girl in a red bikini on the beach, and after brainstorming what she might be doing on the beach, we thought maybe she was looking through her telescope out at the boat in the water. Doris was amazed by the painting, and Dorothy thought maybe we could add a man swimming in the ocean... a shark fin would be too ominous—so although it would be funny—it was decided by Laurette and Jackie to leave a shark fin out. As I was about to pack up, Laurette and Jackie thought we needed something off in the distance, so we added a cruise ship along the horizon. Each resident sees the painting differently and has the imagination to dream what a perfect landscape—or paradise—might look like.
